Iceland's Ring Road

A Driving Adventure - The Road of Fire & Ice

You may want to make this your own personal self-driving Pre-Trip Adventure, as there are B&B's along the way – and LOTS to experience! Route 1, or the Ring Road as it is known, is a national road in Iceland that runs completely around the island and connects most of the inhabited parts of the country.

The total length of the road is 1,322 kilometres (821 miles).

Some of the most popular tourist attractions in Iceland, such as the Seljalandsfoss and Skógafoss waterfalls, Dyrhólaey and the Jökulsárlón glacier lagoon, are easily accessible from the Ring Road.

Friendly B&B's are located around the island, conveniently booked online to host your unique island journey.

The road was completed in 1974, coinciding with the 1,100th anniversary of the country's settlement.

Facts About Iceland

- * You can swim outdoors in hot springs all year round.
- * About 11% of Iceland is covered by glaciers.
- * There are more than 125 volcanic mountains in the country.
- * The Icelandic horse is the only horse breed in Iceland.
- * Because of volcanic activity, 80% of the country is powered and heated by geothermal energy.
- * There is little crime in Iceland, and virtually no violent crime. The country does not have a standing army, and its police officers do not carry guns.
